April 16, 2009

Dear NCLS Parents,

We will resume our class on the coming Sunday, April 19, 2009. There are a couple important issues we would like to address.

1. Let us work together for keeping our classroom and our school

As mentioned in the last weekly letter, during the last couple of weeks, our school has continually received complaints from Day School teachers and Day School administrators for the misconduct inside the classrooms. Here is a picture of one of those incidents. This model is in one of our classrooms and its face had been painted on the face.

If such misconduct keeps presenting itself, we will be in the danger to lose our classrooms and our school. We like to work together with our parents to keep our students to follow the school classroom rules, such as only write on your own book or paper or black board (class use only), do not write or paint on anything else which belongs to the classroom, and do not touch anything in the classroom except the table and chair which are for class use only. Especially, do not touch the classroom teacher's desk or take away any personal belonging from the teacher's desk or drawers, such as candy and money (coins). There is absolutely NO FOOD in the classroom.

Students cannot enter the classroom until the classroom teacher or TA is in the classroom, especially for those in science classrooms.
